Says Pay Raise Essential for Gov't Service

President Seeks Rate Increase on 3 Classes of Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today asked Congress to hike postal rates and increase the pay and benefits of federal workers at a cost to the government of more than 394 million dollars a year.

Mr. Eisenhower said in twin messages to Congress that the mail rate increase "will be in the public interest" to assure efficient service of the Post Office Department and that the pay raise boost is essential "to the further improvement of the federal career service."

In an effort to make the Post Office Department self-supporting, Mr. Eisenhower proposed that the postal rates on the first three classes of mail be increased. He did not spell out the actual proposed increases. He said the postmaster general soon will submit details to raise the rates to "more reasonable levels."

However, the administration stand has been that three cent postage on out-of-town mail should be increased to four cents and air mail upped from six cents to seven cents.

Proposes a Commission
Included in Mr. Eisenhower's postal rate plan was a recommendation that the second class rate on newspapers and magazines should be increased "until such matter makes a fair and reasonable contribution to postal revenues."

Mr. Eisenhower recommended that the postal rate increases be regarded as tentative pending congressional establishment of an independent commission which would have the authority to prescribe future postal rate adjustments under broad policy guidance of Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower recommended what amounted to an approximate 5 per cent pay raise for all federal civilian workers. He said that for the classified or civil service employees this would add about 210 million dollars to the federal payroll. A comparable wage adjustment in the postal service would cost about 120 million dollars.

He also recommended group health insurance benefits for civilian federal employees. The government would contribute approximately one-third of the cost. The government contribution was estimated at about 55 million dollars.

Slightly less than one million people would be affected by the President's civil service pay increase recommendation and about 500,000 persons by his recommended postal service pay increase. Health insurance coverage would be extended to about two million federal employees, including thousands of workers who are not classified and not part of the postal service.

The postal service pay hike actually represented a payroll increase of 6.5 per cent. However, 1.5 per cent of this represented the cost of adjusting current pay scale inequities.

Although he did not specify the postal rate increases he wants, Mr. Eisenhower made these general comments about the various classes of mail:

First class mail: The present three-cent rate "has not been increased in almost a quarter of a century," he said, "and the cost of other goods and services 'have almost doubled'."

Second class mail: The rates which apply to newspapers and magazines "are clearly inadequate" and "should be increased until such matter makes a fair and reasonable contribution to postal revenues." The increases to be proposed will be in two steps to ease the impact on publishers.

Third class mail: Rates on this mail, which consists largely of advertising matter, are now "substantially below the cost of providing this service" and "should be increased."

Mr. Eisenhower called for an unspecified increase in the present $9 per day expense allowance for civilian government employees who travel on official business. He said he would submit specific recommendations soon.

Highway Advisory Group Recommends $101 Billion 10-Year Road Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's special Highway Advisory Committee today recommended a 10-year 101-billion-dollar nationwide road-building program.

The proposal represented a boost of 54 billion dollars over what would be spent on road development during the 10-year period if the current program were continued without change.

The report of the special committee, headed by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, is expected to provide the basis for a special message on highway needs which Mr. Eisenhower will send to Congress on Jan. 27.

The committee recommended that the federal government pay about 30 per cent of the total cost of the entire program. States, cities, counties and other agencies would share in paying the remaining 70 per cent. It proposed the creation of a federal highway corporation with power to issue bonds to finance the federal share of interstate highway construction.

May Include Toll Roads
Over the long run, the committee said, the total proposed federal outlay would be approximately the same amount that the government will take in from federal excise taxes on gasoline and oil — provided these taxes are held at their present level.

The gasoline tax is scheduled to drop April 1 from 2 cents a gallon to 1 cent, but Mr. Eisenhower has already served notice he will ask Congress to maintain the present rate.

"We are indeed a nation on wheels," the committee said, "and we cannot permit these wheels to slow down. Our mass industries must have moving supply lines, to feed raw materials into our factories and moving distribution lines to carry the finished product to store or home."

The committee said that toll roads built to acceptable standards and meeting other requirements which the proposed highway corporation might establish, may be included as segments of the interstate system.

"However," it said, "toll financing is not a satisfactory solution to the most essential urban arterial modernization problem."

Pointing out that the existing highway system is inadequate for both current and future needs, the committee specifically recommended:

1964 Is Target Date
1. That the federal government assume primary responsibility for the cost of a modern interstate network to be completed by 1964 to include the most essential urban arterial connections; at an annual average cost of 2½ billion dollars for the 10-year period.

2. That federal contributions to primary and secondary road systems be continued at the rates of 50 per cent and 25 per cent, respectively.

Area a Winter Wonderland Following Snow
Harrisburg and surrounding area were transformed last night into a winter wonderland as wet, clinging snow that hardened as the mercury fell created beautiful images out of barren trees and shrubs.

The snow, that fell for ten hours and ended around 9:30 p. m., measured four and one-half inches. Weather Observer Clyde Pittman reported. That is nearly a half inch of water when it melts. The temperature dropped to below 20 degrees this morning.

Roads were slippery but accidents were few, and of a slight nature, as motorists showed caution in driving. At least two automobiles had to be pulled out of drifts by a wrecker. These stalled east of town.

The Ellis Trucking Co. terminal here said that its drivers reported the highways were "slippery, but not too bad," and that the trucks were coming in pretty well on schedule.

It was reported that there was no school at Cave-in-Rock or Equality today because of the condition of roads. A check with the office of R. Dale Wilson, Saline county superintendent of schools, revealed that no reports had been received there of Saline county schools not being able to operate.

State police said that the heavy snow in Illinois seemed to be confined to the southern third of the state.

John H. L. Parish yesterday filed his nominating petitions as a candidate for commissioner in the city of Harrisburg.

3 Youths Admit Nine Eldorado Burglaries

Boys Confess Taking More Than $500, Other Items

Nine Eldorado burglaries have been solved by the confessions of a trio of Eldorado lads, Sheriff William T. Barrett announced today.

Barrett said the solutions came after several days of investigation by him and his deputies, who received valuable co-operation from the Eldorado police department during the probe.

The boys confessed taking more than $500 in cash and other items in the burglaries, he said. Signed statements were obtained yesterday afternoon in questioning in the office of State's Attorney K. C. Ronalds.

Burglaries solved were at the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., the Eldorado Lions club den, the Eldorado Grain Co., the Hi-Way Market, Vaughn's filling station, Burnett's hardware, a Kelly home in Parrish Addition, the Maurice Gasaway grocery in Parrish Addition and the Vern Padgett home.

Charged with burglary and larceny were Junior Nelson Hale, 15, and Louis Wring, 15. No charges were filed against a 10-year-old lad who admitted his part and another lad who was implicated in the Padgett break-in.

This latter youth, Sammy Fleming, 15, Eldorado, was picked up later today on a charge of petit larceny and was placed on one-year probation when arraigned before County Judge Trafton Dennis.

Loot in Burglaries
Barrett said the burglaries all occurred during December and part of November. Different combinations of the boys and some of the time all three took part, the boys said.

Biggest loot, the boys said, was at the Hi-Way Market on Route 45 where they said they got $350. They said the Vaughn service station loot was $125 and that they got $75 at the Eldorado Grain Co.

At the Dr. Pepper plant they got 10 boxes of shotgun shells and $200 they confessed, and said that at the Burnett Hardware store they took four cartons of rifle shells, six boxes of shotgun shells, four watches and two flashlights.

The sheriff's office recovered a quantity of clothing, fishing reels and electric razor taken from the Padgett home.

Deputy Sheriff James Lyons went to Jacksonville to return with young Hale, who had departed from Eldorado and was living at a hotel in Jacksonville. He had been picked up by Jacksonville police on suspicion.

Sentence Union Leader for Income Tax Evasion
SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Peoria union leader Guy M. Harmon was sentenced today to four years' imprisonment today after pleading guilty to income tax evasion charges for the years 1948-51.

Harmon, convicted last week on labor racketeering charges, also was fined $10,000 and sentenced to four years in prison for that offense.

Democratic Legislative Leaders Propose Ending Sales Tax on Food

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Democratic leaders of the Illinois House are pushing again to remove the sales tax from food.

A proposed amendment to the state constitution, to allow the Legislature to exempt food purchases from the sales tax, was introduced in the House Monday.

It bore the sponsorship of Minority Leader James J. Ryan, Chicago. Whip Clyde L. Choate, Anna, and former Speaker Paul Powell, Vienna. Democrats have tried the same move in the past, but failed.

Other proposals submitted to the Legislature Monday called for high way speed limits, auto safety inspections, and trimming down the powers of the Illinois Toll Highway Commission.

Propose 65 Mile Limit
Republican Rep. George S. Brydia, Prophetstown, and Ralph Stephenson, Moline, sponsored the bill for speed limits of 65 miles per hour in the day and 55 at night. Gov. William G. Stratton endorsed a speed limit in his message to the Legislature last Wednesday. The law now requires speeds that are "reasonable and safe" under the conditions.

Senate GOP Whip George E. Drach, Springfield, submitted bills to require semi-annual safety tests of autos.

Drach estimated his bills would provide gross fees to the state of $680,000 each year and a net of $200,000. He said this would finance hiring 50 more state police.

Democratic Reps. Jack Bairstone, Waukegan, and Joseph J. Lehlvelt, Maywood, were chief sponsors of three House bills affecting the Toll Road Commission, which has been under fire.

Three Major Revisions
They would remove the governor and his public works director from the commission, cut members' terms from six years to three and make their appointments subject to State Senate okay, and require legislative approval of commission spending.

Two proposals to boost unemployment compensation benefits, a move Stratton called for last week, were introduced.

Sen. R. J. Crisenberry (R-Murphysboro) proposed increasing maximum payments from $27 a week to $40, and the maximum length of payments from 26 weeks to 34.

Choate submitted a bill providing a 35 weekly top for up to 39 weeks, with claimants allowed to make up to $15 a week on the side. Choate also proposed cutting the age for old age pensions from 65 to 60.

R. C. Mattingly Rites Wednesday
Funeral services for Robert Clay Mattingly, a retired miner who died Sunday at 8 p. m. at his home, 903 South Chaney, will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of the Harrisburg funeral home.

Rev. Glen Daugherty will officiate, and burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Ava and Rodney Mattingly, Jack Mattingly, Lowell Shewmaker, Wayne Newcomb and Ed Hazel.

Ivan Green Discusses Shelland Pony Farm at Ridgway in Rotary Address
Ivan Green, owner-operator of Evergreen Farm near Ridgway—largest Shelland pony farm of its kind in the country—was the guest speaker at Rotary club yesterday noon. He was introduced by Ed Kirkpatrick.

An extensive land owner and earlier old enthusiast of Gallatin county, Mr. Green has been devoting his entire time to his pony interests and farms for the past eight years. He hires several trainers and handlers at his farms near Ridgway and at Gainsville, Texas, and shows numerous ponies at the State Fairs and congresses held annually throughout the country.

Recently, six of his ponies won a national championship at the National Shelland Pony Congress, and he has had various and numerous other winners at many events during the past several years. Some of his prized ponies are sought by breeders and showmen in this and several foreign countries. Value of the animals range from a few hundred dollars to as much as $25,000.

Mr. Green told the group that he had only recently received an invitation from Cuba to show his ponies at the National Exhibition there. He said the invitation included the guarantee of an all expense paid trip from the Ridgway headquarters to Cuba and return.

Photographs of the farm, stables, personnel and champion ponies were displayed before the group, and a short question-answer period conducted. Visitors are always welcomed at the farm, Mr. Green stated, and many who visit there are from other states.

The pony farm, which now houses some 93 brood mares, several stud ponies and numerous colts, has been featured in many newspaper and magazine articles during the past decade. Articles concerning the farm have been in such widely read publications as The Saturday Evening Post and the Reader's Digest.

During the business program, discussion was held on the admat machine being sponsored by the club and on promotion of a special day. One visitor was present.

Henry Woods Says A Little Winter Would Be Helpful

IT SNOWS as I write this dissertation and there are persons such as rural mail carriers, truck transport operators, those with unsteady footing and those who just do not like snow who dislike bad weather.

Then there are snow shoe manufacturers, makers of snow suits, weather prognosticators who predict snow and above all—the fuel men—who like to see the blizzard come.

In fact the coal producer has had some bad days this winter, with all the fine weather. The fine days were such bad days for Henry C. Woods, chairman of the board of the Sahara Coal Co., that he took off for Alaska. He had to see some winter or go nuts.

I know that Uncle Hank went to Alaska because I got a Christmas greeting from him postmarked Nome, Alaska.

Then yesterday I got a letter from him and he remarked:

"... I was amused at your letter (he means column) of January 4th, when you said—'Winter has arrived and Spring is not far behind.' Say listen guy, we have had no winter and we coal fellows are hoping for a little winter in January, February and March, but I doubt whether we get it. It might be helpful to the coal industry and possibly Harrisburg Illinois, that employs a lot of miners."

When I was pecking out the phrase "Winter has arrived and Spring is not far behind" I had my fingers crossed. Did you ever cross your fingers, then type a sentence? Try it.

If this snow keeps up, maybe Uncle Hank can come to Harrisburg instead of going to Alaska. That Chicago to Harrisburg passenger is still running with excellent Pullman service.

CONTRAST: I read with interest an article in the St. Louis paper Sunday about an "honor system" drug store, where all the items were right there in front of you and you were on your honor to pay for what you took.

Here in Harrisburg it was Christmas morning, when everybody should have had thoughts of peace and good will.

Jackson's drug store did not open for business that morning, but there were the morning papers and there were customers who always came for them.

The morning papers were placed on a paper rack on the outside of the store and a cup was placed nearby for the money.

Well, the papers were sold all right but things didn't stop there. Somebody stole the money.

"If it was somebody who really needed the money, I wish them a Merry Christmas," said Harvey Devar of the firm. "But if the money was taken by somebody just to be stealing—scallions on them."

Hobbs Outlines Purposes of Lions

Omar Hobbs, deputy district governor of Lions District 1-C, paid an official visit to the Harrisburg Lions club Monday evening.

Talking informally to the Harrisburg club members, Hobbs outlined some of the purposes of Lionsism.

A good Lion will enjoy association with his fellowmen, have a little fun and help his community, the speaker stated.

"A Lions club is a service club, it is organized to be of service to the community," the speaker declared.

It was announced the district governor would make an official visit to this area in the near future and plans were discussed for a joint meeting with neighboring clubs on the occasion of the district governor's visit.

Action Follows Official Ouster of Diplomat

Governments of Nations Have Been Feuding for Months

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Reports reaching the capital said today that a force from Nicaragua had begun an invasion of Costa Rica.

The reports said the invading forces had captured the town of Villa Quesada, in San Carlos province, about 30 miles from San Jose.

Communications were cut and no further details were available. Government troops have not yet contacted the invaders.

Reports that an invasion actually had started followed by only a few hours the official ouster of a Nicaraguan diplomat from Costa Rica and a call for volunteers to patrol the capital against the alleged threat from the neighboring republic.

Costa Rica's ambassador to Nicaragua, Bernardo Montes de Oca, was placed in charge of the volunteer patrol in his home capital, which otherwise presented a calm appearance.

The Nicaraguan charge d'affaires left here today after having been declared persona non grata by the Costa Rican government late Monday.

Foreign Minister Mario Esquivel said the withdrawal of Alfonso Ortega Urbina had been demanded because the diplomat said publicly that Costa Rica was "in a state of great internal tension" and had repeated the statement despite a denial by the Costa Rican government.

The opposing governments of the two nations have been feuding for months. Nicaragua recently charged that Costa Ricans had tried to assassinate its president. It has denied the Costa Rican allegation that an invasion is approaching.

In Washington, the Council of the Organization of American States heard Costa Rican charges Monday and adjourned until Wednesday when it will hear Nicaragua's full reply.

Both Parties Seek Township Election Tickets

Township elections are nearly three months away — Tuesday, April 5—but workers in the Democratic and Republican parties are busy lining up full tickets for all townships.

Saturday afternoon the Democratic Saline County Central committee met in the court house and this evening Republicans of Harrisburg township have a meeting called for 7:30.

A highway commissioner will be elected in each of the 13 townships and ten seats on the County Board of Supervisors will be at stake as seven townships will elect supervisors and assistant supervisors.

The political lineup of the County Board of Supervisors at present is 14 Republicans, seven Democrats and one independent.

Of the ten members to be elected in April, six are now held by Democrats and four by Republicans.

For the Democrats to gain control of the board it would be necessary for the party to make a clean sweep of all ten elections.

In the April elections Eldorado township will elect a supervisor and three assistants and Cottage, Independence, Tate, Stonefort, Mountain and Raleigh each elect a supervisor.

Eldorado now has a Democratic supervisor and two Democratic assistant supervisors and one Republican assistant. Supervisors in Cottage, Independence and Tate are Republicans and supervisors in Stonefort, Mountain and Raleigh are Democrats.

In addition to supervisors and highway commissioners there will be other elective offices to fill, including vacancies in the ranks of Justices of the Peace and constables, which are not filled by the Board of Appointments.

Four are said to have announced an interest in running for highway commissioner on the Democratic ticket in Harrisburg township. They are Carl Tuttle, Wilburn Brown, Ezra Ewell and Virgil Wright. Oliver Woods is a possible candidate for Justice of the Peace on the Democratic ticket.

The President's Program

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

If the American people take their cue from President Eisenhower, they will view the months ahead in his year 1955 with confidence but without complacency.

He told them in his State of the Union message to Congress that they have great reason to look hopefully into the future.

For the first time in long years, there is no active major battle-field anywhere on earth. And after a 1954 marred by a business decline that caused some apprehension, the President could report that "business activity now surges with new strength."

Mr. Eisenhower obviously wants the American people to go about their tasks with renewed cheerfulness, with less tension than has marked their lives in the past decade and a half. He believes the facts of 1955 warrant such a mood.

But he is not willing to have them forget the menace of Russo-Chinese communism which hangs over them, nor ignore some of the shortcomings of their own way of living.

He reminded us military force is still the chief reliance of the Soviet Union, despite all the cooing words about "coexistence." He added that "their steadily growing power includes an increasing strength in nuclear weapons."

Mr. Eisenhower appreciates acutely the danger inherent in this mounting Russian atomic might, and wishes us all to share his awareness.

At the same time, he offers assurance against undue alarm, in the shape of a defense program designed to stress our own air power and atomic force, at the expense of somewhat reduced ground armies. The lawmakers may quarrel over the details of this plan, but they can hardly contest its aims.

The President likewise would puncture any smugness we might feel about the upsurging home front. There are too many gaps and soft spots for us to view it with complete comfort. He has a program calculated to meet many of these problems.

This calls for federal aid to meet the grave shortage of school classrooms, for higher minimum wages, more public housing, a comprehensive new highway program, federal health protection, changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law, an attack on the juvenile delinquency problem, and continuing attention to the needs of farmers, especially drought sufferers.

As he prepares to tackle specifically the problems involved in assuring the nation's safety and prosperity, Mr. Eisenhower is not unmindful of the difficulty confronting a Republican President who must deal with a Democratic Congress.

With some eloquence and abundant good humor, he has appealed to his Democratic friends and opponents in Capitol Hill to approach the tasks of peace and prosperity in a spirit of national harmony and cooperation.

No one doubts he will find this spirit at work on all major matters of foreign policy and defense. Unity of attack is much less likely on domestic problems, for somewhere, somehow, the Democrats must make a record in this Congress that can give them hope of regaining the White House in 1956.

Whatever policies may do to warp and reshape his projects, the President's outlook and program for 1955 appear to have the virtues of positiveness, sanity and moderation—underscored by keen alertness to the continuing peril facing America and all free lands.

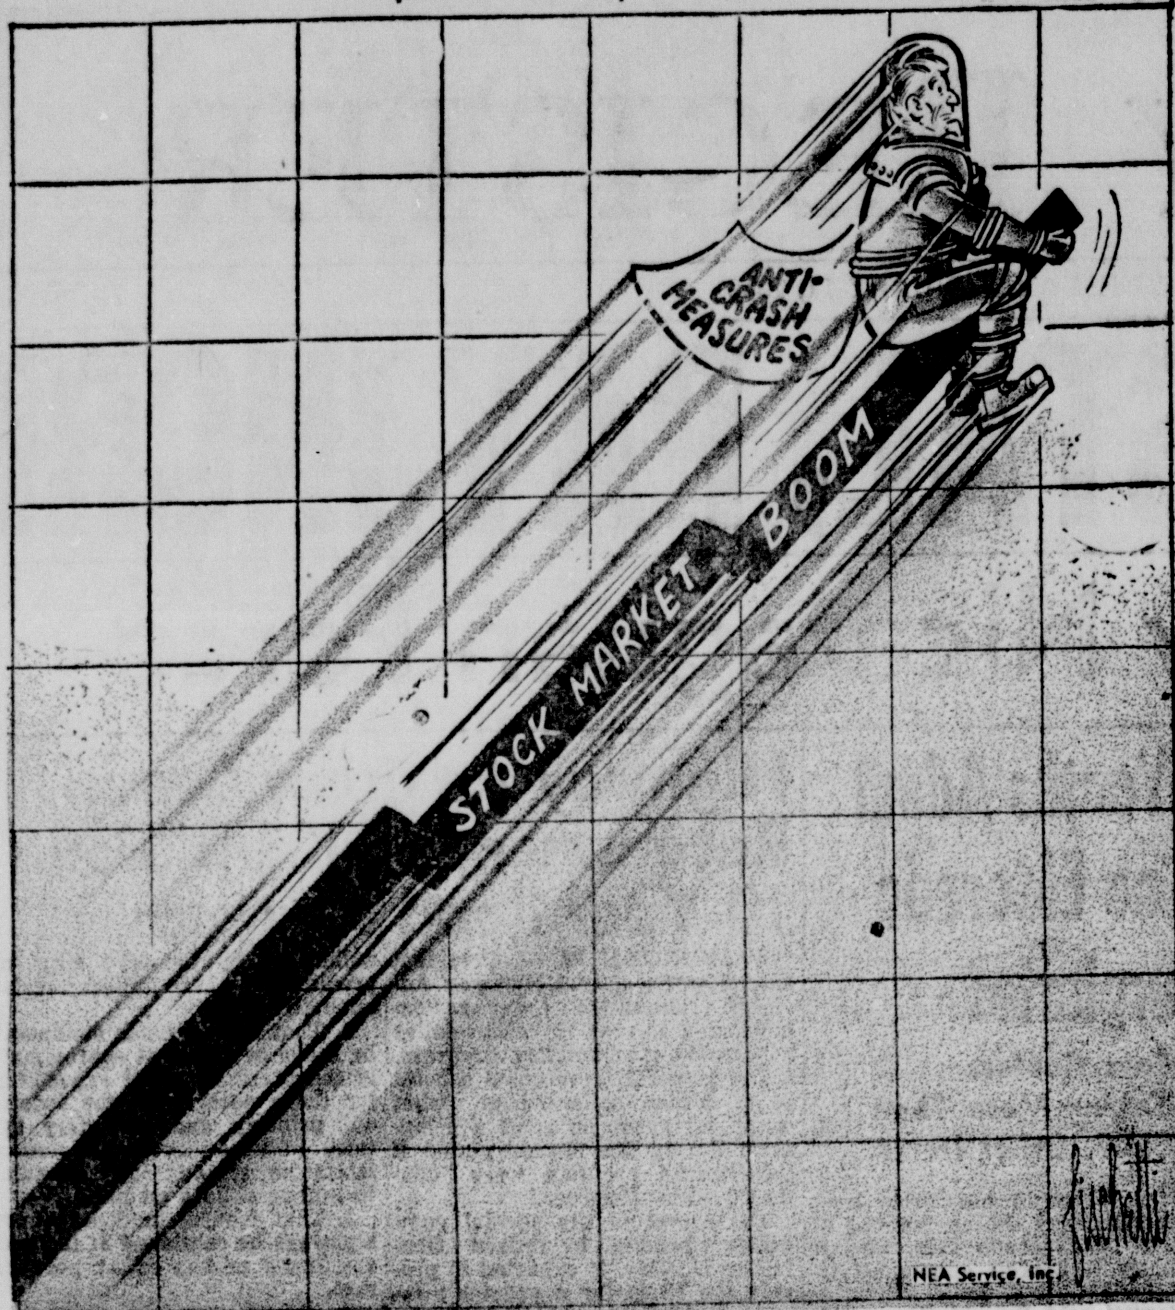

The Continental or Grand Union flag had thirteen alternate red and white stripes with the British Union Jack in the upper left corner.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ike Wants Young Blood In GOP; Senate Conservatives Block Rejuvenation; Sen. Neuberger Is Adopted At Verbal Spanking.

WASHINGTON. — President Eisenhower's talks with intimates regarding his political future are continuing. The details of the talks are not always identical, but the general substance is. And one thing he keeps harping on is that he doesn't want to run for a second term.

Another thing he emphasizes is that the Republican party must build a new liberal organization, develop new leaders.

He also talks of policies very similar to those of Roosevelt and Truman—when it comes to foreign affairs—though, in at least one important case, Ike's ideas didn't get one inch beyond his more conservative, budget-balancing Secretary of the Treasury, George Humphrey.

Lunching with one liberal Republican the other day, the President emphasized the importance of getting vigorous, young Republicans to build the party from the grass roots up, talked about sending several thousand young Americans to work overseas in a mammoth crusade to win friendship. Ike mentioned such men as Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey as the type of Republican needed to run for President. He indicated that he was not unhappy with the outcome of the November election because the two men he wanted most to win were Case and Rep. Jack Javits, who became attorney general of New York; both liberal Republicans.

NEW GOP CHAIRMAN??

Friends who have talked with the President point out that he faces somewhat the same problem as Franklin Roosevelt had with the old guard Democrats. Roosevelt had to sidestep the Farleys, the Ed Flynns, and the other pros by organizing independent political committees such as that under Fiorello La Guardia. Likewise, Eisenhower has sidestepped the regular Republican National committee by reinvigorating the Citizens for Eisenhower committee. He confided to one close friend that he was even thinking of making James Murphy, head of the Citizens committee, the new chairman of the GOP National committee.

Ike's friends also recall that he started out with a GOP chairman supposed to be a liberal Republican—Wesley Roberts of Kansas—but had to drop him after Roberts' unforeseen lobbying record was revealed. In a hurry and not knowing where to turn, he took Leon Hall as the new chairman, but hasn't been too happy with him.

The President's friends say he really waxes eloquent when describing his ideas for building friendship abroad and putting across more liberal domestic policies at home. The trouble is that he runs up against constant roadblocks from his own supporters.

GEORGE SAYS NO

For instance, Harold Stassen and John Foster Dulles had worked out a new Marshall plan for southeast Asia with the full blessing of the President. But when Stassen announced it at a press conference, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey telephoned him from Brazil and proceeded to bawl him out in the harshest sort of language.

The minute he returned from Brazil, Humphrey effectively blocked the proposed Marshall plan for southeast Asia. As a result, there just isn't going to be any Marshall plan. There will be the same type of aid we have sent in the past, but no far-sighted, long-range program such as Ike described to friends just before Christmas.

Plans to rejuvenate the Republican party also run up against the roadblock of Senate conservatives. Today, the two senators proposed as chairman of the Senate Campaign committee are McCarthyite Barry Goldwater of Arizona and McCarthyite Jenner of Indiana.

Simultaneously Ike favors the conservatives, not the leaders, when it comes to jobs. For instance, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania was the first Republican senator to come out for Eisenhower. He is considered one of the top Eisenhower men on Capitol Hill. But he is seldom consulted, gets few jobs. In contrast, Senator Martin of Pennsylvania, a member of the anti-Eisenhower, pro-Taft wing, gets most of the jobs but doesn't always vote with Ike.

NIXON VS. NEUBERGER

Here is a play-by-play account of what happened when freshman Sen. Dick Neuberger or Oregon chastised Vice President Nixon at the Women's Press Club dinner and did it so effectively that Mrs. Malone, wife of the GOP senator from Nevada, walked out in a huff.

Neuberger and Case of New Jersey were the feature speakers. Case gave an excellent speech, so good that Neuberger's might well have been an anticlimax. It wasn't. After some wisecracks and jokes on himself, he hit the theme: "We must base our politics on issues, not on character assassination."

This brought general applause, but Vice President Nixon, sitting one yard from the speaker's stand, did not applaud. He had gone into Oregon, together with eight Republican senators, and had personally delivered some of the worst character attacks on Neuberger.

"No election is worth winning," continued the young senator from Oregon. "If we have to abandon the Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments."

By this time the vice president was getting red in the face.

"I hope," continued Neuberger, referring to Benedict Arnold, "that we will not begin accusing George Washington because he once trusted a traitor."

Nixon squirmed and got more crimson.

"And I want to thank one man who came into Oregon and campaigned hard against me but campaigned squarely on the issues, not personalities," said the young senator. "I refer to the senior senator from California, Bill Knowland."

This brought down the house. Without mentioning Nixon's name, Neuberger had spanked him about as neatly and as soundly as anyone could be spanked.

House Committee Asks Ideas on Revamping Illinois Legislature

SPRINGFIELD (CP)—An Illinois House committee today appealed for suggestions on how to revamp the Legislature.

A special 12-man group asked House members, civic organizations and others for their ideas on how to redistrict the Legislature, a move directed by the voters in the Nov. 2 election.

House members Monday set up the committee and ordered it to report by March 15. The committee met afterward and issued a call for ideas on the subject, to be submitted by Jan. 25.

"We want everything that anybody's got, so no one will feel slighted," Chairman Arthur Sprague said.

"Speak Up Now"

"It's just like a wedding," the La Grange Republican said. "Speak up now or hold your peace."

Creation of the House committee was the first concrete step taken by the 1955 Legislature toward solving the reapportionment problem, probably the biggest issue of this lawmaking session.

Both houses now are controlled by downstaters. The constitutional amendment approved by the voters

'54 Third Worst Polio Year on Record in Nation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The total number of polio cases in Illinois last year reached 2203, according to preliminary State Board of Health reports. This was higher than the preceding year but lower than the average for the past five years. The rate of polio incidence in Illinois during 1954 was about the same as throughout the nation, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reported. Nationally, it was the third worst polio year on record.

The highest polio epidemic year in Illinois during recent times was in 1952, when 4,002 polio cases were reported. This was 20 per cent higher than the national average for that year. It is impossible to predict when and where polio epidemics will strike, which underlines the need for more effective, control measures.

Evaluation of the Salk vaccine, administered to 440,000 U. S. children in the largest medical experiment of its kind ever conducted, is now in progress. It is hoped that an announcement of the vaccine's effectiveness will come this spring. During the field trials last spring, about 14,000 Illinois children participated, half receiving vaccine and half a placebo.

If the vaccine proves effective, about 15 per cent of the funds being raised in the current March of Dimes campaign will be used to purchase vaccine for children now in the first and second grades. First, second and third graders in DuPage and Peoria counties, who participated in the field trials but did not receive vaccine, will also be eligible.

The National Foundation reported that 40 of its county chapters in Illinois needed financial assistance to carry on their patient care programs during 1954, and received more than a quarter of a million dollars.

The March of Dimes organization shipped 81 iron lungs, 6 hot pack machines and 53 rocking beds to Illinois hospitals during the year. Three physical therapists and 15 polio nurses were provided on an emergency basis in the state during 1954.

New March of Dimes research grants during the year brought the total spent in the state for that purpose to $1,442,000, of which more

Broaden Present Tax Bases, Meek Advises

CHICAGO (AP)—Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Assns., said today legislators should try to "broaden the base" of existing taxes rather than enact new ones.

The defeated Republican senatorial nominee gave his views in "Retail News Briefs" published by the federation.

He suggested that in the forthcoming mayoralty campaigns, retailers give their support to "statesmen" who show courage in seeking revenues from current taxes rather than enacting new levies.

For example, Meek said, the present sales tax could be expanded to cover services as well as occupations and a payroll tax could be applied to suburban dwellers who work in urban centers.

Meek also suggested complete revision of the revenue section "of our archaic state constitution."

Meek spoke Monday before the American Trade Association Executive Assn. in New York.

An inventory of her estate, filed in Probate Court Monday, revealed that she left 5,499 shares of stock to the five employees, plus giving them controlling stock in the company.

Verbal Feud by GOP and Democratic Leaders Jars Congress Harmony Hopes

By United Press
A sharp verbal feud between the Senate Democratic and Republican leaders today jarred the bipartisan "good will and harmony" that President Eisenhower is trying to maintain with the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress.

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) touched it off by telling reporters after a White House conference of GOP legislative leaders he suspected "outside organizations" are trying to "muscle in" on the scheduling of legislation for congressional consideration.

Knowland made it clear that his remarks were aimed at the Democratic National Committee which recently issued a point-by-point "analysis" criticizing President Eisenhower's legislative program as laid down in his State of the Union message.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) took prompt exception. Johnson told reporters he was "unaware of anybody muscling in" on the work of congressional leaders in scheduling legislation.

In other developments: McCarthy: Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) made an attempt to fulfill a campaign promise by urging Senate Republicans to bump Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) off the Senate Government Operations Committee. But a GOP conference rejected the idea.

Committees: The Senate formally approved the slates of committee assignments picked by the two parties. This virtually completed the job of organizing the chamber for legislative business. Republicans meanwhile agreed to double the size of their Senate Policy Committee to provide more representation for all points of view in their party.

Trade: House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) predicted that President Eisenhower's foreign trade and tariff cutting program, outlined in a special message Monday, will pass the House with few major changes. But he said there probably will be a fight.

Dixon-Yates: Democratic members of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee met privately to discuss a report blasting the Dixon-Yates power contract, but took no final action.

Security: Support mounted for a bipartisan approach to working out a better way of handling the government's program of checking on the security of its employees.

Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) and Frank Carlson (R-Kans.) members of the Senate Civil Service Committee, joined in calling for a halt to political bickering over how the administration has run the security program.

Contracts: Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said the Senate Armed Services Committee should investigate defense department policy in awarding defense contracts. They called on Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson to make clear whether the department is spreading contracts among several producers or concentrating them in a few large companies.

Seek Pipeline for Letters from Missing Envoy

LONDON (AP)—A letter mailed in London but believed to have come from behind the Iron Curtain revived today the mystery of Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, the British diplomats who vanished 3 1/2 years ago.

Col. J. R. Bassett, stepfather of Burgess, disclosed Monday night that Burgess' mother had received a second Christmas message from her son. Both were mailed in London but apparently were brought here through some secret pipeline.

British security officials were trying to find the pipeline for they knew that a system that could smuggle in letters could smuggle out important information. Both Christmas messages were mailed in seamy sections of London near the Thames docks.

The diplomats' disappearance in May, 1951, baffled the best police brains of the Continent and brought hurried Anglo-American conferences to determine whether they could have carried valuable secrets with them.

Burgess, a Far Eastern expert, was once second secretary of the British Embassy in Washington and Maclean was acting head of the Foreign Office's American Section.

Diplomatic sources were convinced they were in Communist hands, probably in Moscow, possibly in some other satellite capital. Prague, Czechoslovakia, was the name most frequently considered.

That speculation was enhanced in September, 1953, when Maclean's American-born wife, Melinda, bundled their two children aboard a train in Switzerland and disappeared as completely as the diplomats. The train's destination was Prague.

Guard Redhead in Jail After Apparent
Attempt at Suicide

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—A Russian-born redhead who is charged with slaying her office lover was kept under close surveillance by police today after apparently attempting to commit suicide.

A police matron found strips of a blanket near the cot of Mrs. Alice Miller, 28, Chicago, Monday.
It appeared she was preparing to hang herself, police said.

She is charged with killing
Charles G. Marks Jr., 28-year-old sales executive.

Police said the red-haired defendant, an expectant mother, admitted shooting Marks Saturday because he was the father of her unborn child and refused to marry her.

Rev. Emig Attends Religious TV-Radio Workshop

Rev. John Emig, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, last week attended in St. Louis, Mo., a religious radio-television workshop sponsored by the National Council of the Churches of Christ and the Metropolitan Church Federation of Greater St. Louis.

Religious radio leaders from many denominations came from surrounding states. The staff consisted of Charles H. Schmitz, director of broadcast training, National Council of Churches; James Kennedy, chairman program committee, broadcasting and film commission; Ben Wilbur, director of radio broadcasting and film commission of National Council of Churches, and Aldred Edye, professor of speech radio-TV and drama, Butler University school of religion and also a director of the TV station in Indianapolis.

Highlight of the workshop was a visit to the various radio and television stations and conferences with the staffs who produce the shows. The participants of the workshop also studied the various type of radio and TV programs and worked out for formats for specialized programs bringing religious education into the homes by television and also by radio.

Another highlight was a dinner where the top executives of the radio and TV stations of St. Louis, Mo., spent part of an afternoon with the religious experts discussing the relationship of the church with the radio industry. It was pointed out that if the religious leaders can produce programs of professional workmanship there will be time appropriated by the stations for such presentations.

In 1948 Rev. Emig studied for one month at the University of Chicago religious radio workshop. In the past he has broadcast such programs as the Breezy and Jerry hour and the Piano Variety hour. He was also a radio actor and sound effects man on a station in Detroit, Mich. He also presented the Friendly hour on WABJ at Adrian, Mich., the program that had thousands of loyal followers within a 70 mile radius.

At the present time he is a member of the radio and television commission of the Illinois Council of Churches, the radio and television and audio visual director for Cairo Presbytery and the chairman of television for the Churches of Southern Illinois.

Must Educate in Christian Way of Life, Methodists Warn

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Representatives of nine million Methodists in the United States were warned Monday night that communism poses a serious threat to civilization because Communists "spare no effort to transmit their faith to the incoming generation."

The warning was sounded by Dr. Edward McCrady, president of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. Speaking to 25 boards and agencies of the Methodist Church, convened for their 15th annual session, Dr. McCrady called for greater American efforts to educate "in the Christian way of life."

Methodist Men to Meet Wednesday Night

The Methodist Men of the Harrisburg First Methodist church will hold their second regular meeting Wednesday in the Presbyterian church basement, at 7 p. m. Chairman Don Williams has announced.

The organization's constitution and by-laws will be adopted by the members, and Rev. Dale Harmon, district superintendent, will install the officers for the coming year.

A membership committee has been set up to enlist the men of the church, and it is expected that around 100 men will enter into the activities of the organization. Already one temporary committee of the club has begun the organization of a youth choir for the church.

Cadillac

A Great Discovery Is About to Be Made!

The hand you see here is about to turn the ignition key in a new 1955 Cadillac.

It is the hand of a man who has never driven a Cadillac before—but who finally decided to see for himself if all the wonderful things he's heard about the car are true.

Well, he's about to make an important discovery! He's about to learn that, in 1955, Cadillac actually surpasses its own great reputation!

He'll sense it the instant he makes the turn of the key—and hears the deep, rich, eager answer of that 250-horsepower Cadillac engine.

He'll sense it again when he touches his foot to the accelerator—and brings that dynamic engine into action. It will set him instantly in motion—and will carry him forward with a surge of power that is a revelation all in itself.

And then—out on the open road—the full proof of Cadillac's greatness will begin to unfold itself! He'll discover it's incredible ease of steering and handling—so marvelous that the car seems almost to read his mind.

He'll discover its amazing smoothness and levelness of ride—so great that even the road's roughest spots are difficult to perceive.

And he'll discover its marvelous balance on the curves and corners—its incredible quietness of operation—its extraordinary agility in the traffic lanes—and the reassuring action of its big, powerful brakes.

Yes, the evidence will be abundant—and the verdict without question: This is the greatest motor car performance of all time!

If you haven't as yet taken a drive in a 1955 Cadillac, you ought to do so soon.

It's really an education in all the things a motor car should be and do—and we think you owe it to yourself to get the report firsthand.

Stop in soon, won't you? We'll be most happy to give you the keys—any time!

Gen. Hoge Says Atomic Superweapons Will Help Free Nations Defend Europe

Editor's Note: Gen. William M. Hoge, the subject of the following interview with a veteran United Press correspondent, is commander of the U. S. Army in Europe. He commanded assault engineers who crashed Omaha beach in Normandy on June 6, 1944, and later captured the vital bridge at Remagen over the Rhine River. Later he commanded the 9th Corps in Korea.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
HEIDELBERG, Germany (UP)—New atomic superweapons will enable the United States Army to "carry the fight to the Russians" and "make any aggressor think twice before attacking," its European commander-in-chief said today.

Gen. William M. Hoge, commander of 250,000 American troops guarding the Iron Curtain frontier in Europe, said the new 280-millimeter "atomic cannon," the "Honest John" rocket and other Sunday punch weapons now in the hands of his forces would make it possible to defend Europe farther eastward than earlier thought possible.

In an exclusive United Press interview, Hoge added that the addition of 12 West German divisions under the Paris arms treaties would put the free nations in a much better position to defend Europe east of the Rhine than had seemed possible only a year or so ago.

Hoge warned, however, that the Soviet bloc with its estimated 225 front-line divisions still has the preponderance of force and the advantage of initiative.

"We will never be the aggressors," the grey-haired four star general said. "The enemy, therefore, would always have the jump on us and we must assume he would make penetrations at the outset. But the possession of these weapons is a tremendous psychological boost."

"For the first time now our people are taking a forward look instead of merely thinking in terms of withdrawal. There is more hope in the situation than there was before. Our ability to block aggression is greater. We have something now that will make aggression with impunity impossible in Europe. We can carry the fight to the enemy and anyone contemplating aggression would have to think twice before attacking."

Hoge, a slow-speaking native of Booneville, Mo., retired from the Army at the end of the month. The general, now 61, will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, now 7th Army commander.

He commanded assault engineers who captured Omaha beachhead in Normandy on June 6, 1944, and headed an armored combat team that seized intact the vital Remagen bridge over the Rhine River the following March.

Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan in Four-Way Tie For First Place in Big 10

CHICAGO (U)—The class of the Big Ten basketball chase began to rise to the top today with Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Michigan in a four-way deadlock for first place and three other teams in a challenging position with only one defeat.

The Illini, for one week rated best in the nation this year and ranked as sixth best this week, set up the shift in the standings by tripping Purdue at Lafayette, 83-73, Monday night to knock the Boilermakers out of first place.

It was Illinois' second win and indicated the Harry Combes five would be a stronger factor than expected in the 14-game league schedule.

Ridley Nets 20 Points
Four of the Illini regulars hit in double figures, with Billy Ridley turning in 20 points for scoring honors while sophomore Bill Altnerberger netted 19. Purdue, never ahead in the last 35 minutes, suffered its second defeat in 10 games this season.

Minnesota, rated as a possible challenger for the title, posted its second league win too with an 88-74 decision over Indiana as both Dick Garmaker of the Gophers and Don Schlundt of the Hoosiers collected 30 points.

It was the second time this season that Garmaker has hit 30 or more points in a game and the third time that Schlundt has reached that total.

Iowa, classed as the team to beat for the conference crown, also gained its second win with a 94-81 decision over Michigan State at Iowa City.

Cain Leads Scoring
The Hawkeyes, using 14 players, had five men in double figures in scoring—Carl Cain, Billy Schoof, Deacon Davis, Bill Logan and Bill Seaburg—with Cain the leader with 20. Julius McCoy and Duane Peterson each netted 18 for the Spartans.

Michigan relied on sharp shooting by its starting lineup, with all scoring 13 or more points, for a 90-63 win over Wisconsin which kept the Badgers in the conference basement with only one win in four starts. Surprisingly the Badger victory came over Illinois.

Don Eaddy was top point maker for the Wolverines with 18 while Harvey Williams tallied 18 and Tom Jorgensen 17. Dick Cable of Wisconsin took scoring honors, though, with 21.

Kentucky Beats De Paul, 92-59

Duquesne Loses Second Straight as Dayton Wins, 68-67

By United Press
Mighty Kentucky dreamed dreams of bigger and better streaks as it got back on the winning trail today, but woe piled upon woe for cribbed Duquesne.

Emerging from the gloom caused by their first home court loss in 11 years last Saturday, Kentucky's Wildcats started what they hope will be a new 11-year streak by smashing De Paul, 92-59, at Lexington, Ky., Monday night as captain Bill Evans paced the assault with 20 points.

Kentucky, still ranked the nation's No. 1 team despite the 59-58 loss to Georgia Tech that ended their 129-game home court skein, started slowly against De Paul but moved to a 37-24 halftime advantage and then breezed home as Coach Adolph Rupp cleared his bench of reserves.

But there was no such happy revival for Duquesne, the nation's No. 2 team that had been upset, 82-72, by St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., last Saturday. The "Iron Dukes" with All-America Dick Ricketts once again seeing only limited service, were whipped again, 68-67, by powerful Dayton, which is ranked 11th nationally.

Dieringer Sinks Winner
Ray Dieringer, a sub, sank the winning field goal just 12 seconds before the end, but it would have been just another basket if the Dukes had been sinking their free throws—they missed 25 of 40. The victory, Dayton's 11th in 13 games, gave the Flyers revenge for a 90-75 loss to Duquesne in last month's Holiday Festival tournament in New York.

Ricketts hobbled with a sprained ankle, collected personal fouls fast and finally fouled out eight minutes from the end after scoring only 10 points. St. Green paced the Dukes with 27 points, but Johnny Horan of Dayton topped that with 28.

Holy Cross, like Dayton, reaped revenge by crushing Notre Dame, 93-57, at Boston—a marked contrast to Notre Dame's 74-69 victory over the Crusaders in the final round of the recent Sugar Bowl tournament in New Orleans.

Tom Heinsohn of Holy Cross looped in 35 points and was the Notre Dame forged a 21-18 lead midway in the first half, but the Crusaders started a barrage that produced a 46-31 halftime margin and the lead reached 40 points during the second half before Crusader reserves took over. # West Rockford Edge Panthers In Prep Ratings

SPRINGFIELD (U)—The United Press Board of Coaches again picked Rockford West as the top Illinois prep basketball team today despite the Warriors' loss to Rock Island Saturday night.

West barely nosed out Pinckneyville for top honors. The board is made up of the 15 downstate coaches who took their teams to the Sweet Sixteen in 1954.

Behind Pinckneyville, which eked out a close victory over Chester Saturday, came another all-winning team, Princeton. Princeton was advanced from fourth place last week.

Centralia's once-beaten Orphans were fourth, with Morton of Cicero, also topped once, slipping from third to fifth spot.

Collinsville, one-point victor in a Southwest showdown with Edwardsville, ranked sixth, the same as last week. Edwardsville rose from 15th to 11th in spite of its loss.

Harvey Thornton, Moline, Alton and Paris were in the same spots as a week ago—7, 8, 9, and 10, respectively.

East St. Louis dropped back a notch to 12th. Peoria Spalding came into the top 15 as the 13th best team in the state. Elgin was 14 and Dupro dropped from 13 to 15.

The top 15, with records and points listed:

1. Rockford West 10-1	211
2. Pinckneyville 12-0	207

Looking At Sports

By ED KIRKPATRICK
A newcomer to our "You Pick 'em" family of prognosticators won the blue ribbon honors this week. The winner was Tim O'Brien, principal of Pope Co. high school (Golconda) and former coach of the Pope Co. Pirates. This was Tim's initial entry and he battled 100, calling every out come correctly. He was the only one to turn in a perfect blank. Nice going, Tim.

We had four entries who missed only one of the ten games. They were John Bishop, Raleigh, Mrs. O. R. Brown, Harrisburg, and M. W. Winters Jr. and John T. Ellis, both of Shawneetown. Bishop missed on the McLeansboro-Eldorado game and the other three failed to call the Johnston City-Metropolis tiff correctly. We gave Bishop second place since his game of the week score was only nine points off.

Several missed only two. They were Ira Stillely, W. A. Hamby, Eddie Quade, Ed Bean, and Lowell Vaughn, all of Harrisburg; Ralph Gray, Eldorado, Carlos McSparin, Stonefort, Raymond Roeder and Hubert Flannell, Carrier Mills, Alfred Gunzel, Shawneetown, and Dick Lehr, Bridgeport. Bean came closer than anyone on the game of the week score. He missed by six points, tabbing the final count at 71-68, Galatia. This was one of his two misses. Lehr's entry came the most miles.

The McLeansboro-Eldorado game and the Metropolis-Johnston City tussle were by far and away the ones missed most. It was interesting to note that neither of the Harrisburg games or the Shawneetown-Equality scrap were erroneously called. Yet, every other game caused someone's downfall. Some of our old standbys muffed three or four this time, but no one miscalculated more than five times.

We'll skip the Friday and Saturday games this week in order to give you a bracket on the Greater Egyptian conference tournament which is to be held next week at Pope Co. high school. This bracket for you "You Pick 'em" fans will appear Thursday or Friday and you'll have until Sunday to complete and mail it. Don't forget to watch for it.

Radford Says Blockade Would Be Effective

Chairman of Joint Chiefs Returns from Round World Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today an Allied blockade of Red China would be an effective step to take if other efforts failed to free 11 American fliers imprisoned there.

Radford, returning from a round the world inspection trip, told newsmen that a blockade would "be the best way to tackle such a problem."

He did not advocate a blockade in so many words but he said that if other measures fail to win freedom for the 11 imprisoned American airmen, a blockade would "have a great deal of effect on the Red Chinese."

United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld conferred with Red Chinese leader Chou En-Lai in Peiping in a dramatic attempt to win freedom for the airmen. But highly placed diplomatic sources in London said today he apparently failed to win their immediate release.

Opposed By Eisenhower

Diplomats have assumed that if Hammarskjöld's mission failed the United States would take other steps to free the fliers. Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), Republican leader of the Senate, has previously urged a blockade of Red China as one of these steps.

But President Eisenhower told a news conference recently that a blockade would be an act of

32 Soldiers Bail Out of C119; Plane Lands Safely

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP)—Thirty-two soldiers parachuted safely from an Air Force C119 Flying Boxcar near here today after one of the big aircraft's twin engines caught fire.

The plane's four crew members landed the ship safely a few minutes after the last soldier had bailed out. The flames were extinguished by firemen at the Miles City Municipal Airport.

At Denver, Maj. Jack Kaurie, public information officer at Lowry Air Force Base, headquarters of the 44th Air Rescue Squadron, said the plane was en route from Ellsworth Air Force Base, Rapid City, S. D., to Edmonton, Alta., when the engine caught fire at a point about 15 or 20 miles northwest of Miles City.

The pilot ordered the 32 soldiers aboard to bail out, Laurie said. All of the soldiers were picked up a short time later by Miles City sheriff's officers and policemen and were taken to a hotel here until another plane could be flown to Miles City to continue the flight to Edmonton.

war, and made plain that he would not undertake such a course lightly.

Radford talked to reporters about a variety of security problems in the Far East.

He reiterated that atomic weapons would be used to meet any renewed Communist aggression in Korea—if they were militarily required.

Use of atomic weapons elsewhere in the Orient if the Reds undertake aggressive moves would "depend on the circumstances at the time," he said.

Fight The Wild River

THE STORY: There has already been an attempt to take a shipment of guns from Captain Crotch's riverboat, and since Arizona is a prize in the War Between the States, there may be others. Ring-leader in the attempt was Radcliff Burke, who is a passenger aboard the craft. Other passengers include Cal Dreyfus, a miner, and Queenie, who has promised to become his bride.

VIII

An hour later she saw Crotch go scuffing up the cabin deck's ladder. The mate, Goss, was taking the watch with a revolver strapped to his waist. The deck hands standing sentry positions were all armed and most of them were wearing bandages.

The decks were quiet now except for the snoring miners. Beside her Dreyfus lay, breathing heavily. Now that Dreyfus had withdrawn his arm from her she slipped from the blanket, intending to take a turn about the deck.

Aft of the engine pit the river wind took on added heat from the boiler and here the deck was clear of sleepers. She was about to return when she discovered Radcliff Burke standing beside the paddle wheel. In spite of herself her heart gave a lift.

Burke's eyes were dark and shiny, but except for this he walked toward her with a bland, motionless expression. She knew he was displeased at finding her aboard.

"You've made a mistake," he said and dropped his hand on her arm. "You shouldn't have followed."

"But I haven't followed!" "You're lying!" He glanced aft behind the paddles; his mind was beginning to whisper how easy it would be to drop her into the river, to make an end of this now.

Her words were falling against his ear, irritating his mood still further. "I'll never tell anyone, Radcliff. The things of the past are behind us—everything we've said and done. I'll not tell how you became a Knight."

He gave a slight start and the full blackness of his eyes struck her. "I ought to make sure you'll never say that out loud. It would be so easy to silence you."

His hand traveled upward and stopped against her throat. But she was conscious only of the touch of his fingers; she was helpless now, as she always had been.

His fingers were hurting her throat, yet she stood before him clinging to a love that hadn't died. Suddenly he pulled her tight. His mouth came down hungrily after her lips.

For no comprehensible reason the pattern of his thinking had become as starkly clear as though he had told it. Burke had come to her at first meaning to put her out of the way. His plan had changed because he saw now that it was not necessary. He would make love come alive anew; he would use her until he had enough and then discard her somewhere along the river as a man throws away a ragged coat. When he drew apart for his look at her she told him, fiercely:

"Don't ever try it again. Don't ever come near me! You're sordid, cheap—Burke; you're nothing but a renegade!"

Before dawn the banging of iron fire doors made further sleep impossible. Crotch gave his whistle cord a tug, calling aboard those who had camped ashore. A few minutes later there was a soft cough of steam from the escape pipe and the stern paddles were chopping the water.

The General Heath was a shallow draft, flat-bottomed packet. Eighteen inches of water could float her. In this respect she was admirably adapted to the Colorado whose swirling whirlpools tore away sand bars and deposited islands where a few hours before had been river channel. Each passage was its own experience of grazing rocks and hanging up on sand bars, of pushing her free.

The miners, squatting on deck where they had slept, were eating jerked meat from the supplies they had brought with them. One man with a deeply bandaged forehead had brought antelope steak and biscuit. Crotch noticed the bandage, and this made him wonder if this man had been in last night's fight. No doubt he had, and now Crotch felt the urge to pitch the man over the rail.

Burke came down the ladder, paused beside the rail, listening to the exhaust of the engine. It would take them several days to reach La Paz. Then would come the chance for another try at the rifles. As he mused, a voice spoke harshly beside him.

"I see a face."

Burke shoved his jetblack eyes around to the man, a trident, coarse-faced fellow, and said coolly, "The captain will suspect that bandage. You're a fool to come aboard!"

"You're a cool one!" the man replied. "Last night we had them licked. What made you kill Belaire?"

Burke paused while the bitter recollections of that fight again drew his mouth down tight. It had been close, but there had been no help for it. And now the Amador was behind him and Jamison would be searching for a wagonload of rifles that wasn't there. After that he would continue upriver, but he would search long and for that fruitless effort he would make Crotch suffer.

"I shot Belaire because he was trying to take over our show," he said. "I warned him not to start shooting. A man that can't accept orders is no good to us."

Burke walked on. Beside the rail he spied Crotch, silently watching. (To Be Continued)
